

Santander Future Wealth

5 / 2025

Fund commentary

In May, part of the negative performance of the previous month was reversed and the fund rose by +6.26%, leaving the annual return at -7.7%. This month, the theme that contributed most to the fund's good performance was technology (Future Tech). The weighted average of the companies in the portfolio was up 9.2% for the month. The next best performing theme was Future Planet with a weighted average return of 6.4%, while the Future Society theme lagged far behind with a positive performance, albeit only 1.8%. Here, the Life Sciences theme even performed negatively, with funds such as Janus Life Sciences or JP Genetic Therapies in negative territory.

Regarding the changes made this month, the weight in Future Technology increased at the expense of the decrease in Future Planet. In the first theme, we added weight in both artificial intelligence and cybersecurity. In Future Planet, we reduced the weight of climate action and resource scarcity. With respect to the Future Society theme, the weight is maintained, although there are small adjustments in some of the weights of the funds that comprise it.
